Montgomery Ball Club.

On last Friday evening at the Masonic Temple the Montgomery Ball Club gave one its most popular meetings. The mere mention of an entertalnment by this club is a synonym of the multiplicity of words which could be employed in presenting it in reality. The ceiling of the ball room was elaborately decorated with the national colors, red, white and blue, with a Liberty Bell hanging from the center. This, together with the beautiful decorations of the side walls and stage, presented a most beautiful and effective scene. The music, which was furnished by Saxton, of Lexingtor, was all that could have been anticipated. The gentlemen in full dress were never more gallant and the ladies were pictures of grace and beauty. The visiting ladies were:

Misses Mary and Ina Goodpaster, of Owingsville; Miss Marie Bartlett, of Boston; Miss Kate Bronston, of Lexington; Misses Rebecca Ashton and Ollie Fant, of Flemingsburg; Miss Simpail, of Covington; Misses Lila Chenault and Kate Smith, of Richmond; Misses Elizabeth and Emily Hazelrigg, of Frankfort; Miss Elizabeth Donelly, of St. Albans, W. Va. Miss Maude Badger, of Ocalla Fla. Miss Mary Crit Lane, of Versailles Miss Hannah, of Harrodsburg, and Miss Pieratt. of Hazel Green.

The Mt. Sterling Womans Club and the Chautauqua Circle were very handsomely entertained by Miss Ids Hamilton at her beautiful home near good the city on Thursday. The members In attendance report a most enjoyable

On the backs of the marchers were many bullet-torn Confederate coats,old canteens and knapsacks. Several darkies, true to their old masters, marched with them in the parade, while two old Confederates, who probably had relieved the monotony of camp life with music in war times, carried their fiddles and bows.

"It was a grand spectacle, one not likely to be seen again for years. From 1:45 to 3:40 o'clock veterans, sons of veterans and military passed the City Hall. #### Death of James T. Breen,

James T. Breen, aged 63, one of the best known citizens of our city, died at his home on Clay street at 10 o'clock Sunday night, July 5, 1896. Mr. Breen leaves a wife and a daughter to mourn as loving a husband and father as was ever given to any home For thirty years he was engaged in the drug business in this city and epjoyed during all his business career, aindeed during his entire life, the confi dence and esteemof the business world No truer, kinder gentleman ever lived among us than James T. Breen. Modest almost to diffidence, he wayet so true and honest in all his dealings, so generous and thoughtful for others that he won his way into the hearts of the people and took a firm hold on them. A number of years ago when in the full flush of manhood, he made the good confession and united himself with the Christian there, but, alas, so many of those who that 15,000 men and children started Church of this city. Some years since, after financial reverses came to him, Mr. Breen removed to Arkansas, where he engaged in business for several years. Something over a year ago he returned to his old home and for several months conducted the drug business of J. B. Tipton, but his health was undermined by his stay in the South and since he gave up the position he has been steadily declining.

The burial service will be conducted at the grave by Rev. H. D. Clark at 10 o'clock this morning and the order of Odd Fellows (of which he was a member) will also extend the last sad rights as prescribed in their mrial service.

James L. Conroy.

Business in every branch is progres sive and the man who does not keep pace with its onward movement is left It is not infrequent to hear men complain of the lack of business, and hard times and in the most of such cases the fault is with the man and not with times. It we would have an article that will go, it must be modern with every profitable improvement, and to no branch of business does this apply more than to the manufacture of conveyances. High class rolling stock must be neat and attractrive with the best of wood, the highest finish and put together by the most experienced workmen. No man is better acquainted with these facts than Mr. James L. Conroy. He uses the best of every kind of material, puts it together strong and gives the carriages he makes a neat finish. Everything is just right, the prices charged are reasonable and hence itis continued good business while others are around talking hard times.

When it comes to repairing, Mr. Conroy is without a superior. When he sends the work away from the shop it is only an expert who knows
